Great New Books

Green by Laura Vaccaro Seeger - Take a look at the many, many varieties of the color green. Fun cut-outs on each page make the pictures pop.

Big Hugs, Little Hugs by Felicia Bond - The title says it all, really. Adorable animals hugging in lots of different ways.

Just Duck! by Nicola Davies, illustrated by Salvatore Rubbino - Discover duck facts galore as a little girl observes the ducks she sees throughout the day.

Plant a Little Seed by Bonnie Christensen - When planting a garden, you must plant, water, weed and wait. But as this book illustrated, the hard work is all worth it when the seeds finally come up!

Ocean Sunlight: How Tiny Plants Feed the Sea by Molly Bang and Penny Crisholm - Attention all wannabe scientists! This book is for you. Learn about how the sun's energy feeds all living things and the big roll that teeny, tiny plants play in the ocean.

Rachel Carson and Her Book that Changes the World by Laurie Lawlor and Laura Beingessner - Pioneering environmentalist Rachel Carson changed the way that people think about pollution and it's effects on the environment. This is another great book for science lovers.
